Who doesn't know someone in hospital? There's a convenient way to get a cheery greeting to the hospitalized: hospital volunteers deliver it. Folk receiving these notes have mentioned how important they are. Check out: <https://horizonnb.ca/patients-visitors/send-a-message-to-a-patient/>

The federal government has launched a public consultation to see how government programs might assist what it calls Rural Communities. This presents an opportunity for us to contribute as individuals and as faith communities deeply rooted in rural life. The voices of those who live and serve in rural places -- families, farmers, small business owners, community volunteers, and church members -- should be heard in this conversation. We live in a world where faith is not assumed, where transcendence is optional, where the divine doesn't show up, and where religious claims must make sense within everyday experience. And yet there is hope, and we are called not only to have hope but to be part of hope. This is the theme of an on-line workshop that Shawn Branch and other folk we know are co-sponsoring on Thursday evening (29 January) and continuing on Saturday (31 January). The great group of participants includes Bp Lynne McNaughton, Bp Sandra Fyfe and Bp Susan Bell and our own David Edwards. It's called the Missional Imagination Conference 2026. Richmond's annual meeting is coming up (7 March), meaning that annual reports on various activities must be prepared for printing.

👉 Send your own report – if possible with suggested photographs – to Marilyn Wilson, who seems once again to be volunteering for the task of collecting all our parts into a document for the ages: Marilyn = momathome4@hotmail.com

There is good news. Grace Shaw's joy-filled life touched countless others for good in her decades of teaching at Woodstock Composite High, community college, University of Maine, the Multi-Cultural Association and everywhere she went. Her sudden death at the age of 92 hardly qualifies as good news, but a reading of the many testimonies left on her obituary is very uplifting.
